By PEGGY WRIGHT STAFF WRITER

A MORRISTOWN man has pleaded guilty to sexually abusing seven children at his home and former home in Lakewood, beginning when some were as young as 2 years old. " Robert Balisok, 57, admitted Wednesday to two counts of aggravated sexual assault and five counts of sexual assault on the boys and girls that spanned depending on the age of each of the children between 1983 and March 1997. Individually, some of the children were fondled or molested for five or six years, and others over one- or two-year periods, Balisok admitted to Superior Court Judge B. Theodore Bozonelis, sitting in Morristown. During questioning by defense lawyer Susan Van Amburgh, Balisok said that he engaged in oral sex or touched the genitals of the children. Under terms of his plea bargain, Balisok will be sentenced to 20 years in state prison or at the state's Adult Diagnostic and Treatment Center for sex offenders if he meets the Woodbridge center's admission criteria as a compulsive and repetitive sex offender. His sentencing is tentatively set for Oct. 8. He has been lodged 1998 in the Morris County jail on $450,000 bail since April. Balisok's ex-wife, Annabelle, who now lives in Chicago, was indicted in November by a Morris County grand jury on two counts of endangering the welfare of the seven children between April 6, 1983, and May 12, 1992, by failing to report or stop sexual assaults the grand jury says she knew was happening. The charges are pending.
