

This is Google's cache of http://articles.chicagotribune.com/2010-06-19/news/ct-met-doctors-sex-mor-20100619_1_mor-chiropractor-license-sexual. It is a snapshot of the page as it appeared on Jan 18, 2018 17:46:38 GMT.

The current page could have changed in the meantime. Learn more

Full version Text-only version View source

Tip: To quickly find your search term on this page, press Ctrl+F or ⌘-F (Mac) and use the find bar.

Zohar Scott Mor won't seek reinstatement

June 19, 2010

Zohar Scott Mor, of Richmond, became eligible to reapply for his chiropractor license in December following a minimum two-year suspension.

The professional regulation department disciplined Mor after he was convicted of sexually abusing a 7-year-old girl while living in Israel. He was sentenced to 18 months in prison.

Mor, who was acquainted with the girl's family, on several occasions placed her on his lap, reached into her pants and touched her, court records show. Originally charged with sexual assault, he pleaded guilty to the lesser charge.

The department also pointed to allegations of sexual misconduct made by two of his former patients to the Spring Grove Police Department.

One woman told police that Mor fondled her breasts on multiple occasions when she saw him at his office in Spring Grove. Another woman alleged Mor pulled down her gown and fondled her breasts during a visit to his practice, according to state records.

Mor never underwent an administrative hearing at the Department of Financial and Professional Regulation. Instead, his attorney negotiated privately with the department's attorney.

A consent order allowed Mor to reapply for his license after finishing his criminal sentence in Israel, passing a special-purposes exam for chiropractors, completing any outstanding continuing medical exams and submitting to an evaluation conducted by a board-certified psychiatrist.

Reached by phone at his home in Richmond, Mor said he had no comment on the Israeli conviction or the allegations of sexual misconduct made by patients. He said he would not seek restoration of his license.

Megan Twohey

Related Articles

Tribune watchdog investigations spur changes

January 2, 2012

Sex offenders will lose medical licenses

July 22, 2011

75-year-old again charged with practicing medicine without...

November 18, 2010

State suspends license of chiropractor accused of sex...

June 25, 2014

Mayoral Campaigns Gearing Up

November 22, 1996

MORE:

Kerrigan's Once-shiny Image Gets Even More Tarnished

Actress sued over O'Keeffe film that wasn't

Teen Gets 8 Years In Baby's Death

Harding, Longtime Coach Different As A Team Can Possibly Be

Princess Grace`s Fatal Crash: Her Daughter`s Account

When one partner in a marriage doesn't want sex, what are options?

Terms of Service

Privacy Policy

Index by Date

Index by Keyword

www.chicagotribune.com

Connect

 Like us on Facebook

 Follow us on Twitter

Chicago Tribune