

---

News / Police & Courts

State agents: New York man drove to Bethlehem for sex with teen

A New York man was charged with attempting to meet what he thought was a teenage girl for sex Wednesday in Bethlehem. (FILE PHOTO / THE MORNING CALL)

By Matt Coughlin · Contact Reporter
Of The Morning Call

DECEMBER 21, 2017, 6:25 PM

A 30-year-old man from Monsey, N.Y., drove to Bethlehem Tuesday to meet a teen he planned to molest, according to the Pennsylvania Attorney General's Office.

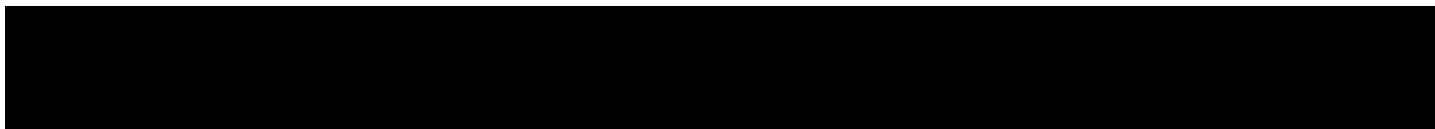

Instead, Alexander M. Davis is charged with unlawful contact with a minor, attempted statutory sexual assault and criminal use of a communication facility, according to court records.

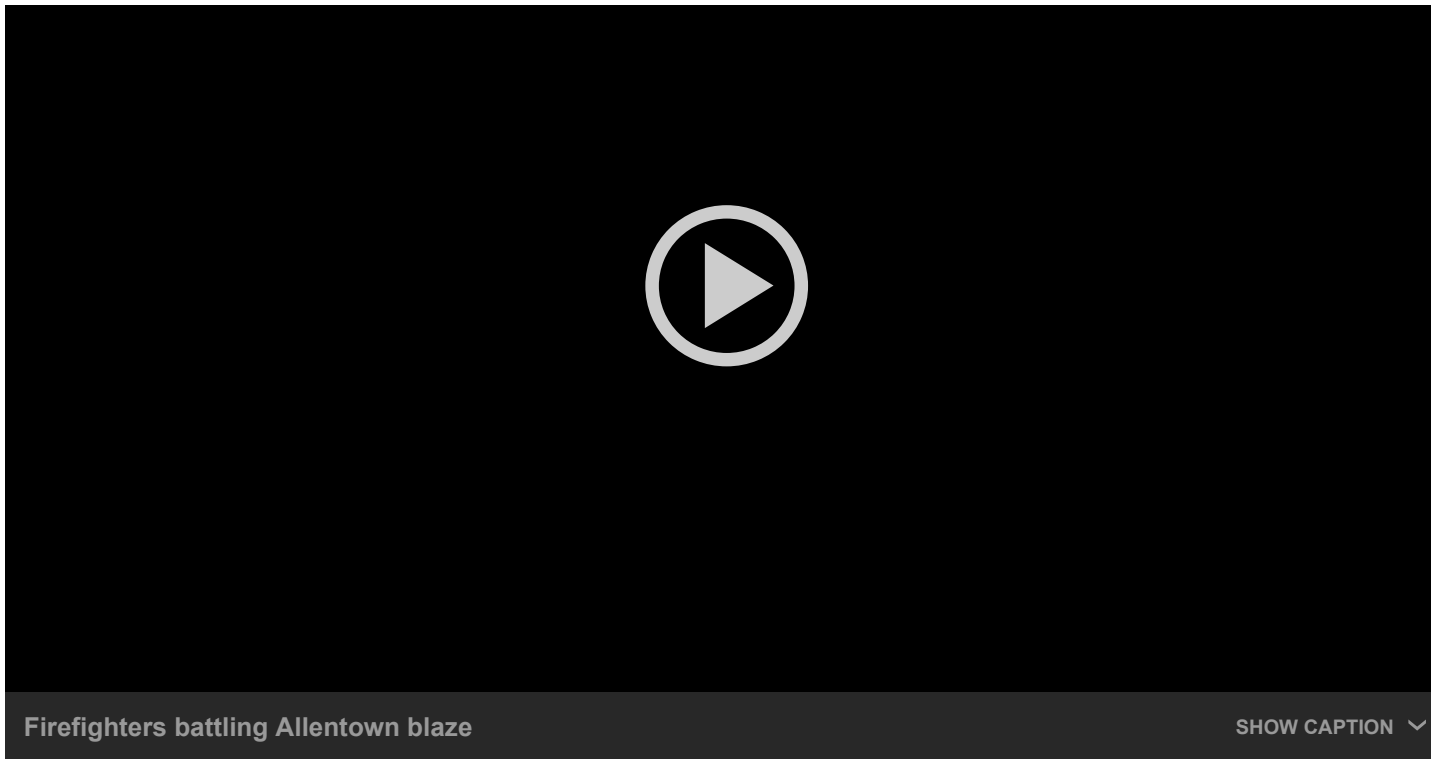

According to court records, an agent from the attorney general's office assumed the undercover identity of a 14-year-old girl. On Dec. 4, the detective received a message from Davis, authorities said. The "girl" told Davis she was 14 at multiple points, police said. During the conversation Davis said they would "cuddle, it's so special the first time," and "I wish I could experience it again, only pleasure," and Tomorrow is a day to celebrate, everything will be just like your fantasy.," according to court records.

They agreed to meet and on Dec. 20, at 10:20 a.m. and Davis said he would bring condoms and lubricant, according to police. Davis was arrested a short distance from the meeting place in Bethlehem, police said.

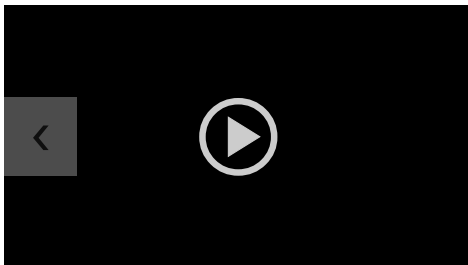

Police said Davis admitted contacting the undercover officer and arranging to meet and have sex with a person he believed was a 14-year-old girl.

Davis is being held in Northampton County Jail on $50,000 bail.

1 / 289

Firefighters battling Allentown blaze

WATCH: Allentown firefighters still battling fire on N. Franklin St.

WATCH: Jacob Schmoyer used homemade explosives to cause Allentown car blast in murder-suicide

matt.coughlin@mcall.com

Twitter @coughlinreports

610-820-6564

Get Today's Headlines: P.M. Edition delivered to your inbox.

SIGN UP

Privacy Policy

Copyright © 2018, The Morning Call

BE THE FIRST TO COMMENT

---

---